

A close-up, profile view of a leopard's head and shoulders, looking towards the right. The leopard has a golden-brown coat with dark, irregular spots and rosettes. Its eyes are light-colored and focused. The background is a dense, out-of-focus green field of tall grass and small plants. SOUTH LUANGWA

Home to the original walking safari, South Luangwa is the perfect destination for adventurous and active travellers. With our award-winning guiding team, you can explore as you please, discovering the diverse tapestry of habitats that comprise South Luangwa National Park. During the green season, you can venture by foot, vehicle or boat - with the Luangwa River flowing at its highest levels, this is the season for boating safaris. With many migrant species flocking to the river, it is an excellent time for bird watching. You'll have the unique opportunity to see the largest yellow-billed stork colony nesting in the flooded forests. It is also the best time of year to see endangered wild dogs. Year-round, you can expect iconic river crossings of large herds of elephant and epic leopard and lion sightings.

LOWER ZAMBEZI

Flanked by the escarpment on one side and the mighty Zambezi River on the other, Lower Zambezi National Park is an extraordinary wilderness. Lush channels branch from larger rivers and weave through ancient forests, creating a haven for wildlife and birdlife. Wide open pans and tranquil riverbanks create a backdrop for dramatic wildlife action. Boating and canoeing safaris are good all year on the Zambezi, where you can expect to see large, relaxed herds of elephants, diverse birdlife, crocodiles and large pods of hippos. As the rains start to recede in April, it is the best time to see endangered wild dogs.

LUIWA PLAIN

Liuwa Plain is unspoilt and exclusive with rare game and a rich natural heritage. From January to May the annual floods turn plains into a haven for migratory birds. Large flocks fill the sky, including crowned cranes and Africa's largest wattled crane population. Not only a great time of year for birdwatching, but also boating and seasonal fishing. With wildebeest abundant around camp, this is an excellent time to see lions, hyenas and even cheetah hunting. With the vast plains, dramatic skies and incredible birdlife, Liuwa Plain is a dream come true for photographers.

A young hyena cub is the central focus, sitting upright in a shallow, wet, grassy field. The cub has light brown, shaggy fur and large, rounded ears. It is looking directly at the camera with a calm expression. The field is filled with small, white, daisy-like flowers on thin green stems. The background is a vast, open landscape of tall, dry grass under a warm, golden light, suggesting the time is either sunrise or sunset. The overall mood is serene and natural.
